"The Message Goes On": NRB Broadcast with Lucas Miles Reflects on Charlie Kirk, Mission of Christian Communicators

WASHINGTON, DC, DC, UNITED STATES, September 29, 2025 /

EINPresswire.com/ -- The National Religious Broadcasters (NRB), the world's largest association of Christian communicators, hosted a special live conversation to reflect on the life and legacy of Charlie Kirk and equip Christian communicators to carry forward the movement he championed. The conversation featured TPUSA Faith Senior Director Lucas Miles and was hosted by NRB President & CEO Troy A. Miller. The program is now available for broadcast and for public viewing on NRB's YouTube channel.

A lot of churches have stopped preaching the Gospel. ... I implore you, get in the fight. Arise, mighty, valiant warrior. It's your time.”

Lucas Miles

Throughout the conversation, both Lucas Miles and Troy A. Miller highlighted Kirk's lasting impact as a communicator and his unwavering commitment to truth.

Miles reflected on Kirk's legacy and example to the world of Christian media: “Charlie wasn't provocative. Charlie was truthful. The only time truth is provocative is when you don't want to hear it. I've never seen a person with more integrity. What he preached is what he practiced. He encouraged other people to be who I saw him be. ... He was the type of person that made me want to be a better man.

“The one thing he taught me is that courage is the easiest thing in the world—that all you have to do is say yes. You don't have to be smart. You don't have to be brave. You just have to say yes.

"A lot of churches have stopped preaching the Gospel. ... I implore you, get in the fight. Arise, mighty, valiant warrior. It's your time."

Miller noted the enduring mission of Christian communicators in times of grief as well as joy: "He calls the messengers home, but the message goes on. ... We now have the call to keep the message going on to a world that is more open and more hungry for that message than ever before."

Miles concluded: "Let's do what he would do, and that's make heaven crowded. And there's a lot of work for us all to join in. I'm honored just to be one of all of you as a Christian communicator and broadcaster and to be part of NRB."

Lucas Miles' new book, Pagan Threat, also released this month, examines how ancient false religions are resurfacing in new forms, shaping societal values, and influencing even within the walls of the church. With a foreword by Charlie Kirk, the book calls believers to recognize these threats and respond with clarity, courage, and a renewed commitment to the Gospel.
