The Assessment Leadership Council embodies our shared commitment to cultivating a culture of continuous improvement at ACHS”

Dr. Ashley Chou

During the event, participants shared assessment data, key findings, and recommendations from the Spring and Summer 2025 terms, providing valuable insights into student progress toward learning outcomes. Their collaborative work directly informs teaching practices, resulting in targeted interventions to address learning gaps identified in the data.

From Fall 2024 through Fall 2025, the ALC engaged in a comprehensive series of specialized training sessions designed to strengthen assessment practices, foster collaboration, and support continuous improvement across the institution. Led by Dr. Ashley Chou, ACHS Dean of Institutional Effectiveness & Library Services, the program’s focus this year included:

Session 1: Introduction to the Council and Assessment
Session 2: Assessment Tools
Session 3: Data Interpretation and Closing the Assessment Loop

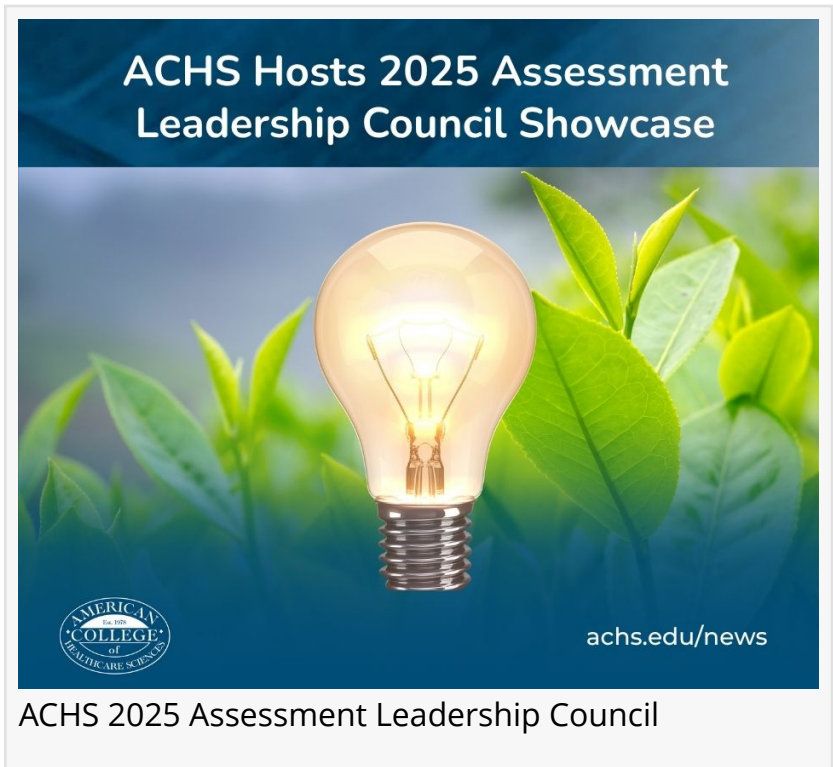

This intensive initiative equips council members with the knowledge and skills to champion assessment strategies, implement effective policies, and ensure that ACHS's academic programs are meeting and exceeding student learning goals.

"The Assessment Leadership Council embodies our shared commitment to cultivating a culture of continuous improvement at ACHS," says Dr. Chou.

"Over the past year, our faculty and staff have come together to strengthen assessment practices, engage in meaningful dialogue, and create actionable strategies that support student success. This showcase is not only a reflection of their dedication and hard work, but also a celebration of how assessment, when done with intention and collaboration, transforms learning outcomes and advances our mission as leaders in integrative health and wellness education."

ACHS extends recognition and appreciation to the 2025 ALC members for their dedication and leadership:
