

Trading Game Announces v5 Launch with Personalized Learning and Refreshed Design for 3.5 Million Users

Leading Trading Simulator App to Introduce Personal Finance Academy, ETF Investing Course, and AI-Powered Personality-Based Learning Paths

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, October 1, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Trading Game, the world's leading trading simulator and financial education platform, today announced the upcoming launch of version 5.0. With over 3.5 million downloads and an impressive 4.7-star rating from 26,000+ users, the app is preparing its most significant update since inception.

The v5 update will introduce a completely refreshed visual identity, including a new app icon and modernized interface, alongside groundbreaking educational features designed to accommodate the diverse needs of aspiring traders worldwide.

Personalized Learning: No One-Size-Fits-All Formula

At the heart of Trading Game v5 is a revolutionary approach acknowledging that there is no single formula for trading success. The updated platform will feature personality-based learning paths that adapt to individual circumstances, including:

Trading style assessments identifying whether users are suited for scalping, day trading, swing trading, or long-term investing

Time zone optimization recommending markets and timeframes based on geographic locations

Schedule-adaptive modules for users with varying time commitments

AI-driven learning recommendations personalizing course progression based on performance

"We've learned that traders are as diverse as the markets they trade," explained Janis Drobisevskis, Co-Founder of Trading Game. "Someone in Tokyo with two hours before work needs a completely different strategy than a New York-based trader with flexible hours. Version 5.0 recognizes these differences and builds personalized learning experiences that actually work for each individual's lifestyle."

Expanded Academy: Complete Financial Education

Trading Game v5 will significantly expand educational offerings with three major additions: New Personal Finance Section - Comprehensive modules covering budgeting, debt management, emergency funds, and financial planning fundamentals.

Complete ETF Investing Course - Detailed instruction on exchange-traded funds, portfolio diversification, passive investing strategies, and building long-term wealth.

Fully Rebuilt Trading Course - The core curriculum redesigned with interactive elements, real-world case studies, and integration with the app's advanced trading simulator for immediate practical application.

Enhanced Trading Simulator Technology

The flagship trading simulator will be significantly upgraded to provide the most realistic paper trading experience available on mobile, featuring real-time market data across stocks, forex, cryptocurrencies, and commodities, along with advanced charting tools and integration with Chart Intelligence AI for instant technical analysis.

"Our trading simulator isn't just a game - it's a professional training ground," added Axel Ore, Co-Founder of Trading Game. "Users can execute thousands of trades, test strategies, and make mistakes in a completely risk-free environment before ever considering real markets."

Continuing Innovation in Financial Education

Since its founding in 2016, Trading Game has maintained its commitment to democratizing financial education through technology. The v5 release builds upon previous innovations including Chart Intelligence AI for professional-grade technical analysis, the patent-pending Copy to Chart feature, and Trading Battles for competitive learning.

With strong user growth across the United States, United Kingdom, Germany, Italy, Brazil, and emerging markets worldwide, Trading Game continues to prove that financial education can be both effective and accessible.

"We're not promising overnight success or get-rich-quick schemes," emphasized Drobisevskis. "Version 5.0 doubles down on our core mission: providing transparent, comprehensive education that helps users understand the 'why' behind every trading decision through our advanced trading simulator platform."

Availability

Trading Game v5.0 will be available soon as a free download on iOS and Android, with premium features accessible through subscription. Existing users will receive the update automatically.
