Celebrating 30 years is about honoring our people and partners. In the last four years alone, we've guided $5 billion in projects that have transformed complex challenges into sustainable results.”

Jason White, CEO of LEC Partners

experienced consulting group in the bioeconomy, proudly celebrates its 30th anniversary. Since 1995, the firm has helped clients worldwide transform complex challenges into sustainable, profitable results across bioenergy, biomaterials, and biobased chemicals, food and feed applications, and carbon management.

With a network of over 160 experts, LEC Partners has guided projects worth more than $5 billion in the last four years alone. The firm is recognized for assembling the right team for each project, combining technical, financial, and regulatory expertise to ensure innovations are not only feasible but also scalable and commercially viable.

“Celebrating 30 years is about honoring our people and our partners,” said Jason White, CEO of LEC Partners. “In just the last four years, we've guided more than $5 billion in projects — proof of the growing demand for practical, proven expertise in the bioeconomy. Together, we've scaled new technologies, unlocked funding, ensured compliance, and delivered real results. As the bioeconomy accelerates, we'll continue helping clients turn challenges into sustainable, profitable results.”

Over the past three decades, LEC Partners has advised startups in bringing breakthrough ideas to market, supported investors with due diligence and risk insights, guided multinational corporations through compliance challenges, and served as expert witnesses in high-stakes litigation.

Looking ahead, LEC Partners remains committed to advancing the global bioeconomy by scaling technologies, strengthening partnerships, and driving projects that make sustainability profitable.
