LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, October 3, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Source Group International is excited to announce the appointment of Nigel Lindsey-Noble as Director in Switzerland. Nigel's arrival marks another bold step in SGI's mission to connect exceptional talent with market-leading organisations, while building teams that achieve their full potential.

A highly experienced recruitment sales leader, Nigel has spent his career building high-performing teams, designing powerful sales strategies, and delivering innovative workforce solutions for clients around the globe. Since moving to Switzerland in 1999, he has developed deep market expertise and an enviable network, collaborating with some of the most forward-thinking companies in the world.

A Career Driven by People

For Nigel, the highlight of his professional journey isn't a single deal or award - it's the decision to step into the recruitment industry in the first place. "Having had the honour to collaborate with so many wonderfully talented individuals and serve some of the most innovative customers over many years, it's almost impossible to name one defining career moment," he shared. "Choosing this industry all those years ago has been incredibly rewarding in countless ways. That was the moment that set everything in motion."

His leadership style mirrors SGI's own philosophy: ambitious goals backed by an aligned, empowered team. "It starts with building a shared dream, creating a collaborative roadmap to get there, and ensuring the team has the tools, knowledge, and support to deliver on their own expectations.
