Monterail*

This is Monterail's third acquisition this year, following the Untitled Kingdom in January and EL Passion in September, which strengthened the company's competencies in the healthtech sector and AI-assisted software development. This move underscores the company's strategy of building specialized expertise and consolidating in key markets.

Founded in 2014, Lakeview Labs has established a strong reputation for delivering digital solutions to startups and mid-sized companies across industries in the United States. With its strategic location in Chicago, one of the country's major technology and business hubs, the acquisition enables Monterail to strengthen its American presence and provide closer collaboration and localized expertise to U.S. clients.

This acquisition is not just about expanding the team, but primarily about strengthening competencies and shortening the paths to delivering value to clients. Lakeview Labs brings the mobile expertise and U.S. market proximity that let us help American businesses build scalable digital products more effectively—said Szymon Boniecki, co-CEO of Monterail.

Through the acquisition of Lakeview Labs, Monterail strengthens its ability to turn innovative ideas into scalable digital ventures, with a particular focus on mobile development. With three acquisitions completed in 2025, the company is broadening its scale and deepening specialization across healthcare technology, AI-assisted development, and mobile-first solutions.
