

New Philanthropy Initiative Launches to Strengthen Underserved Nonprofits in NYC

Uniting Passion and Purpose to Empower Grassroots Nonprofits and Build a More Equitable New York City

NEW YORK CITY, NY, UNITED STATES, October 6, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ --

The Nonprofit Collective Foundation (NCF) today announced the launch of Social Venture Partners New York City

(SVP NYC), bringing a proven global model of equity-centered, high-impact philanthropy to one of the world's most dynamic nonprofit ecosystems.

NEW YORK CITY

Too often, small grassroots nonprofits are overlooked, even though they're the ones closest to the challenges. SVP NYC is here to change that, by investing in their capacity and their leadership.”

Danette O'Connell

Across the U.S., 85% of nonprofits operate on under $1 million annually, limiting their ability to innovate or sustain critical missions. In New York alone, more than 33,500 nonprofits—many led by and serving communities of color—employ 1.3 million people and generate nearly $97 billion in wages, yet too many remain chronically underfunded.

A Catalyst for Equitable Philanthropy

SVP NYC reimagines giving as a long-term, equity-centered, and trust-based partnership:

□ Transformative, not transactional — multi-year capacity-building support.

□ Community-led change — centering those closest to the challenges.

□ Global reach, local depth — connecting NYC nonprofits to a worldwide network.

A Proven Model

The SVP global network has moved $90M+ in mostly unrestricted funding, contributed hundreds of thousands of skilled volunteer hours, and strengthened leadership capacity for thousands of nonprofit leaders.

“New York City is home to extraordinary nonprofits and community leaders already working toward a more just and equitable city,” said Danette O’Connell, CEO of NCF and SVP NYC. “We are here to join that effort, bringing global experience, deep partnerships, and a commitment to help nonprofits grow stronger and scale their impact.”
