Remnants of Our Life with Your Dementia: A Poetic Memoir

Presented through poetic reflection, "Remnants of Our Life with Your Dementia: A Poetic Memoir" captures the shifting contours of love, identity, and presence when memory fades. Each poem serves as both a tribute and a reckoning—revealing how beauty and heartbreak can coexist in the same breath. It is not only a record of one man's experience but also a compassionate mirror for countless families navigating similar paths.

This release marks David R. Topper's first foray into poetry following a distinguished academic career. A retired professor from the University of Winnipeg, Topper is the recipient of two teaching awards and the author of six books. His previous works explored intersections of science, philosophy, and art; this poetic memoir expands that intellectual curiosity into the realm of the deeply personal.
