

DATABASICS Announces New Expense Card Solution, Revolutionizing Spend Management for Businesses

RESTON, VA, UNITED STATES, October 9, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ --

DATABASICS, a leader in expense management and timesheet solutions, today announced the launch of the DATABASICS Visa® Commercial Card, powered by PEX. This new credit-based solution gives finance teams an embedded card alternative that combines real-time visibility, enhanced control, and faster financial reconciliation.

For years, DATABASICS has integrated with major credit card providers—including Capital One and Bank of America—to enable streamlined reconciliation and improved visibility into corporate expenses. But many traditional bank connections only provided basic data exchange, not the real-time insights or control that modern finance teams need today.

...Our customers were asking for more. They needed greater control, enhanced visibility, and a seamless user experience. That's why we teamed up with PEX to build the DATABASICS Expense Card.”

Marcel Syriani, COO/CTO of DATABASICS.

DATABASICS offers three variations of cards: corporate cards, prepaid cards, & disbursement cards.

“While we have long offered integrations with major credit card providers, our customers were asking for more,” said Marcel Syriani, COO/CTO of DATABASICS. “They needed greater control, enhanced visibility, and a seamless user experience. That’s why we teamed up with PEX to build the DATABASICS Expense Card—a smarter, more connected way to manage spending.”

“Embedding PEX into DATABASICS creates a seamless, unified experience for finance teams,” said Toffer Grant, Founder and CEO of PEX. “We’re thrilled to partner with

DATABASICS to bring a more integrated, automated way for finance teams to manage expenses.”

From Integration to Innovation

The DATABASICS Expense Card helps organizations take control of expense management by replacing reactive tracking with real-time visibility and proactive spend controls.
