UNION NACIONAL DE PEQUEÑOS GANADEROS Y AGRICULTORES

TRANSFORMING BOLIVIA'S SMALL-SCALE AGRICULTURE INTO A MODEL OF RESILIENCE, UNITY, AND ENVIRONMENTAL RESPONSIBILITY

UNAPEGA

Founded in 1983, UNAPEGA represents a coalition of Bolivia's smallholder agricultural and livestock producers. With a national presence that includes 11 Municipal District Unions and 90 Community Associations, the organization supports more than 100,000 families engaged in sustainable farming, animal husbandry, and diversified agroecological production.

Under the terms of the new MOU, UNAPEGA has transferred a significant plot of land in the Monte Cristo area of Santa Cruz to BlueGrace Energy Bolivia, using BGACT (Bluegrace Amazon Carbon Token) as the mode of acquisition. This token-based mechanism reflects BGEB's pioneering model of leveraging carbon credits and blockchain innovation in land transactions. The acquired lot will host a collection and development center for training, value-added production, and technological innovation that benefits UNAPEGA's affiliated families.

BGCAT Token

□□ What Is BGACT & Why It Matters

BGACT (Bluegrace Amazon Carbon Token) is a blockchain-based token designed to represent one metric ton of verified CO₂ offset or removal. Each token serves as a digital certificate attesting to a quantifiable climate action, linking carbon finance directly to environmental projects. The BGACT model aims to bring transparency, accessibility, and efficiency to the carbon credit market, enabling both institutions and individuals to participate in climate mitigation in a verifiable and scalable way.

By using BGACT in this transaction, the acquisition aligns with carbon stewardship—the value used to secure the land is tied to real climate benefits. The land will be leveraged in projects that integrate renewable energy, sustainable agriculture, and ecological preservation, thereby deepening the connection between emission reductions and on-the-ground impact.

□□ A Shared Commitment to Bolivia's Future

The Memorandum grants an initial term of five (5) years, within which both parties commit to technical cooperation, project implementation, and institutional strengthening. The agreement may be renewed and expanded by mutual consent, ensuring sustained impact for Bolivia's rural communities.
