

Flux AI Launches CRAISEE: The World's First All-in-One Generative AI Platform

CRAISEE by Flux AI is live: the world's first all-in-one Gen AI platform combining 5000+ AI models for text, image, video, and audio creation in one workspace.

Solving the chaos of AI tools

The Flux AI team—founded by Tim Stickelbrucks (CEO), Alexander Gorny (CTO), Klemens Dreesbach (CMO) and Marc Adam (CSFO)—built CRAISEE after facing the same frustration as millions of creators: AI tools are scattered, costly, and complicated to use.

“We were paying hundreds of dollars every month for multiple subscriptions—ChatGPT for text, Midjourney for images, another for video or audio—and our files were everywhere,” said Tim Stickelbrucks, CEO of Flux AI. “We realized that for many students, freelancers, and creators worldwide, this chaos makes AI unaffordable. So, we decided to fix it.”

With CRAISEE, users can access the entire AI creation ecosystem—text, image, video, and sound—through one interface for just $9.99/month.

AI for everyone

Built as a next-generation AI Operating System, CRAISEE removes the technical barriers of generative AI. Its clean, user-friendly interface allows anyone—from beginners to professionals—to generate, edit, and combine content seamlessly. CRAISEE automatically updates with the latest AI tools, ensuring users always have access to the most advanced models available.

“CRAISEE is designed to make AI accessible and fun again,” added CMO Klemens Dreesbach.

“We’re not just building another tool—we’re building the world’s first AI playground for all.”
