AI tools educator every creative, business, and production leader should align with. On Sunday, October 12, 2025, he brought his visionary expertise to the DaVinci International Film Festival's Digital Hollywood program (<https://davincifilmfestival.com/digital-hollywood/>), where he inspired a distinguished audience of filmmakers, producers, and directors during his live presentation at AMC The Grove in Los Angeles.

“Film and storytelling have always evolved with innovation,” said Swain. “AI is the next great leap.”

The afternoon session delivered a powerful mix of innovation, inspiration, and hands-on AI education. Everett's presentation was more than a keynote — it was a transformative masterclass that revealed how artificial intelligence is reshaping storytelling, elevating creativity, and empowering professionals across industries.

As both a Digital Hollywood panel partner and a featured keynote speaker, Swain captivated attendees with his deep knowledge of how AI transforms creative workflows and business models. His dynamic teaching approach combined education, practical applications, and visionary foresight, making him one of today's most respected AI educators and technology innovators.

The event was curated and moderated by Sharlette Hambrick, a veteran media leader with decades of production experience. Hambrick, who recently served as an Independent Executive Director on the Golden Globes Board (HFPA), helped lead strategic transformation and global broadcast initiatives, including serving as Executive Producer for the Middle East Broadcast Channel coverage of the 2024 Golden Globes on CBS and The Emmys on FOX. Under her guidance, the Digital Hollywood panel delivered a compelling conversation on how AI innovation, inclusivity, and education are shaping the future of entertainment and creative collaboration.

About Everett Swain II and UXD Academy

Everett Swain II, Founder of UXD Academy and Hour Table, is a pioneer in AI automation, design thinking, and creative technology. His keynote, “The Digital AI Future of Film and Storytelling,” at the DaVinci International Film Festival’s Digital Hollywood program, underscored his mission to empower creators, educators, and executives to embrace AI and lead smarter through innovation.

“Film and storytelling have always evolved with innovation,” said Swain. “AI is the next great leap. At UXD Academy, our mission is to empower creatives and leaders with the tools to imagine boldly and execute with precision.”

Earlier that week, Swain also partnered with the Hollywood Park Film Festival as a Digital AI Tech Partner and Educational Class Host at IMAX Cinapolis in Inglewood, leading an AI Tech Education Panel that taught filmmakers and creators how to integrate AI into storytelling and production to enhance creativity and audience engagement.
