Commenting on the appointment, Co-Chairman of Alpha Ring International, Peter Liu said:

"We are delighted to welcome Charles to head up Alpha Ring's U.S. operations. His wealth of leadership experience in advanced research and industry will be instrumental in achieving Alpha Ring's strategic growth plans over the next five years."

Charles Gary, Alpha Ring's U.S. CEO added:

"I am honored to take on this role. It is an exciting time for the company, and I look forward to working with the team to build on its strong foundations and expand its reach."

"I share Alpha Ring's passion for achieving commercial fusion – limitless clean energy – and I am excited to play a part in driving forward this ambition."

Before joining Adelphi Technology, Dr. Gary managed the Information Physics Group at the NASA Ames Research Center. He has a Ph.D. in Electrical Engineering from Stanford University, an MBA from Heriot Watt University, 11 patents and more than 100 scientific publications.
