The deal was structured to preserve the company's long-term customer relationships, support continuity of service, and position the buyer for growth in an expanding market segment. Terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

"This business is a great example of what's possible when an owner builds with intention," said Ed O'Sullivan, Owner and Broker at VR Business Sales Bucks County. "The seller started with a clear vision, a strong work ethic, and deep industry knowledge. We were honored to help them realize the full value of what they built."

The company had grown steadily from a modest operation into a regional supplier serving both contractors and commercial clients.
