In her position, Stephanie supports quoting, order management, and delivery coordination—key areas that keep yard ramp and loading equipment operations running smoothly and customers informed. She works closely with the sales and production teams to align schedules and confirm project details. Her organization and clear communication help ensure every order reflects

Copperloy's dedication to quality, reliability, and customer satisfaction.

"Copperloy's dedication to quality and responsive service sets a strong example in the industry," said Stephanie Klukow. "I'm proud to join a team that shares my commitment to professionalism and building lasting customer partnerships."

Andy Pohlmeier, National Sales Manager, said Stephanie's experience and attention to detail have already made a positive impact.

"Stephanie brings a clear focus on customers and an ability to keep projects moving," said Pohlmeier. "Her organization and follow-through align perfectly with how we do business here at Copperloy. She's the type of teammate who keeps everyone informed and the customer experience consistently strong."

Supporting Copperloy's Mission

Stephanie's arrival reinforces Copperloy's focus on dependable service and American-made quality. Her role bridges communication between departments, helping streamline workflow and improve responsiveness as customer demand continues to grow. Colleagues describe her approach as calm, methodical, and always solution-oriented—qualities that mirror Copperloy's reputation for integrity and dependability.

As Copperloy continues to expand its product lines and capabilities, team members like Stephanie are central to sustaining the company's forward momentum. Her contributions support Copperloy's long-term goal of continuous improvement, ensuring every interaction—from the first call to final delivery—reflects the company's high standards.
