Purpose-built for energy, corporate and government entities, the facility drives innovation, supports digital transformation, solves complex challenges, and accelerates technology adoption. Demonstrations are tailored to real-world scenarios, for both business and mission-ready operations.

What visitors will gain from the experience:

- Immersive demonstrations replicating real-world operational challenges
- Experience the unique Microsoft Teams integration for seamless hybrid meetings

- Gain insights into building resilient, high-impact visualisation environments
- Connect multiple data sources on a single large-format display, that supports faster and smarter decision-making

“We provide a secure high-impact space where customers can experience high-performance technology solutions designed for their most business-critical operations,” said John Harald Grønningen, Cyviz, EVP Europe. “Located right in the heart of London means we can bring this experience to more organisations, with greater efficiency, and show them exactly how our technology can deliver impact from day one.”

Key features of the London showroom:

- Ultra-thin LED brilliance - Commercial-grade curved display with uncompromised image quality, fully compatible with the latest HDR and 4K standards.
- All your data, one wall - Connect and display multiple business and mission critical data feeds in a large, customisable format, supporting a wide range of applications.
- Hybrid collaboration - Fully integrated with Microsoft Teams to enable both, in-person and remote meetings, with seamless collaboration between onsite and distributed teams.

Our partnership with Cyviz provides a powerful opportunity to showcase our cutting-edge display technology in a real-world setting,” said Filip Cogghe, Leyard Planar, VP Europe. “Through this collaboration, we’re able to demonstrate how our advanced screens deliver exceptional visual performance, reliability, and energy efficiency — empowering high-impact environments to operate seamlessly and with uncompromising quality”.

Experience it for yourself

Whether you are managing global energy infrastructure, leading a corporate crisis centre, or running a secure government operation, this new showroom is a must-visit. It is for anyone seeking scalable and standardised, visualisation and collaboration technology solutions.
