"Earning placement in three of the industry's biggest awards this month is a true reflection of our team's dedication to providing our guests with exceptional experiences," says Paul Jordan, area general manager, The Tennessean Hotel. "We're so proud to have taken two Golds in the Stella awards, to be back on the Condé Nast Traveler Readers' Choice rankings and to once again receive a Key from The MICHELIN Guide. While we are grateful for the accolades, we are even more thankful for our guests and customers for voting for The Tennessean and supporting our property."

In the 38th Annual Condé Nast Traveler Readers' Choice survey, nearly 800,000 readers cast votes for their favorite hotels, resorts, destinations, cruises, trains and airlines. The Tennessean

Hotel - one of only two Tennessee hotels on the list - earned the No. 23 spot in the Top Hotels in the South, ranking for the 5th time on the prestigious list.

Celebrating outstanding achievements in quality service and innovation within the meeting and event industry, The Tennessean Hotel won two Golds in the 9th Annual Stella Awards - chosen as the Best Hotel/Resort Event Space in the Southeast, which honors properties that provide outstanding on-site meeting venues to event organizers and their stakeholders and as the Best Boutique Property in the Southeast, which recognizes smaller hotels that go above and beyond for their guests. This year's winners were selected from more over 1,000 nominations, reflecting superior performance and overall prestige in the meeting industry space.

The Tennessean Hotel was selected by One Key Hotel by The MICHELIN Guide for the second consecutive year, distinguished by MICHELIN inspectors as one of the very best hotels in the United States. Inspectors take into account five universal criteria when considering a hotel: excellence in architecture and interior design, quality and consistency of service, overall personality and character, value for the price, and a significant contribution to the neighborhood or setting. As a One Key property, The Tennessean is recognized as "a true gem with personality. Service always goes the extra mile and the hotel provides much more than others in its price range."
