As per Nikhil Agarwal, founder of BPX, "Today's businesses are not looking for digital tools alone; they are seeking transformation that is intelligent, scalable, and sustainable. Our BPX Greenfield SAP solution helps organizations leverage the true potential of SAP by building modern architectures that are process-oriented and aligned with long-term business strategy."

The latest product of BPX includes SAP accelerators Greenfield, which are intended to address requirements of various industries such as manufacturing, pharmaceuticals, retail, logistics, BFSI, and others. These accelerators can help shorten a go-live timeframe by up to 40%, significantly decrease project risk, and deliver value more efficiently by ensuring quick adaption and minimal disruption.

Rupal Agarwal, co-founder of BPX, emphasized that the firm is filling a significant market requirement using a special blend of industry templates and SAP new deployment methodology. Companies are tired of addressing aged problems and desire to start anew. This is exactly what SAP Greenfield solutions provide, with BPX's strategic consulting layered on top of it.

BPX Greenfield SAP architecture is built on the foundation of four building blocks, and these include: SAP Greenfield architecture, best practices by industry, agile delivery styles, and integration methods in real-time. It is due to this combination that SAP new implementation projects are in a position to deliver technical improvement along with measurable process improvements and enterprise flexibility.
