

Irth Solutions Acquires Borealis to Enhance Critical Infrastructure Performance Management with Stakeholder Engagement

TPG-Backed Combination Will Deliver Comprehensive Solutions for the Energy, Utility and Telecommunications Industries Globally

COLUMBUS, OH, UNITED STATES, October 16, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Irth Solutions ("Irth"), a leading provider of cloud-based asset integrity, damage prevention, and land management solutions, today announced it has acquired Borealis Software, a premier stakeholder engagement platform, to create a unified solution for critical infrastructure operators across North America and the world.

Irth Solutions acquires Borealis Software.

The combined company will deliver an end-to-end platform that integrates Irth's industry-leading damage prevention, asset integrity and land management capabilities with Borealis's comprehensive stakeholder engagement and community relations tools. This powerful combination will enable energy companies, utilities and telecommunications providers to improve asset resilience and management.

Our combined platform will better serve and protect the communities that depend on the essential services our clients provide."

Brad Gammons, CEO of Irth

"By combining Irth's capabilities with Borealis's stakeholder and community engagement solution, we're significantly expanding our land management offering and enhancing our damage prevention and asset integrity solutions. Our combined platform will better serve and protect the communities that depend on the essential services our clients provide," said Brad Gammons, CEO of Irth.

"The infrastructure industry is facing unprecedented demands—from energy transition and grid modernization to heightened expectations around community engagement and environmental stewardship," said Patrick Gregoire, CEO of Borealis Software. "Joining forces with Irth allows us to provide organizations with the comprehensive tools they need to successfully navigate these challenges while maintaining their social license to operate and ensuring the safety and reliability of critical infrastructure."

TPG has now closed its previously announced acquisition of Irth. "We invested behind Brad and the Irth team because we believe in their mission and see a huge opportunity to scale their best-in-class business through a combination of organic growth and strategic acquisitions," said Aaron Matto, Business Unit Partner at TPG. "Borealis is a strong complement to Irth's existing tools and capabilities, and we are pleased to work with the teams to support this exciting transaction and their long-term growth strategy."
