At this year's show, attendees will have the opportunity to see laser cleaning technology in action through live demonstrations hosted by Advanced Laser Restoration. These demonstrations showcase how the process safely removes rust, paint, soot, grease, and other contaminants from marine surfaces without chemicals, abrasives, or damage to the substrate.

We're proud to bring this technology to the heart of the marine industry right here in our hometown,”

Rob Colon, Owner and Operator of Total Laser Cleaning & Restoration

“Laser cleaning is revolutionizing how boats, yachts, and marine equipment are maintained. It's safer for operators, gentler on materials, and better for the environment, all while delivering a superior clean,” said Rob Colon, Owner and Operator of Total Laser Cleaning & Restoration.

In addition to its marine cleaning services, they will highlight professional-grade laser cleaning machines available for order. Attendees can learn about the different models, ask questions about applications and capabilities, and explore how this technology can be integrated into their own marinas, shipyards, or restoration operations.

The company serves clients throughout Florida and New York, offering laser cleaning solutions across multiple industries, including marine, aviation, construction, medical, historical preservation, fine art restoration, and more.
