

BAE Systems and Aviation Concepts, LLC Renew International Distributor Agreement

Aviation Concepts, a supplier of aftermarket aviation parts and repair solutions, announced renewal of its International Distributor Agreement with BAE Systems.

SUNRISE, FL, UNITED STATES, October 16, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Aviation Concepts, LLC ("Aviation Concepts"), a supplier of aftermarket aviation parts and repair management solutions, today announced the renewal of its International Distributor Agreement with BAE Systems, a global defense, aerospace and security company.

Under this renewed agreement, Aviation Concepts will continue serving as an authorized distributor for BAE Systems' aerospace products within the defined territory. This collaboration strengthens Aviation Concepts' portfolio and expands access to BAE Systems' trusted technologies and solutions for operators around the world.

This renewal underscores our dedication to keeping aircraft flying safely and efficiently while broadening access to the parts and services our customers depend on every day.”

Matt Haugk, CEO of Aviation Concepts, LLC

“Our longstanding relationship with BAE Systems reflects a shared commitment to supporting aviation operators with reliable, high-quality components,” said Matt Haugk, CEO of Aviation Concepts, LLC. “This renewal underscores our dedication to keeping aircraft flying safely and efficiently while broadening access to the parts and services our customers depend on every day.”

Through the collaboration, Aviation Concepts will leverage its proven customer support capabilities and global industry relationships to provide enhanced availability of BAE Systems' products. The agreement builds on Aviation Concepts' reputation as a trusted partner to commercial, regional, and corporate aviation customers worldwide.

“BAE Systems is pleased to renew this distribution agreement, which represents a significant step in expanding market reach and strengthening our joint effort for long-term success,” said Tim Wells, director of asset management and new business programs at BAE Systems.
