What Are The Factors Driving The Plumbing Fixtures and Fittings Market?

The global drive towards sewerage treatment in response to rising water needs is fuelling the growth of the market for plumbing fixtures and fittings, purchased or leased by entities or individuals. The need for effective sewerage treatment encourages the demand for innovative and efficient plumbing products, as they are critical in promoting sustainable wastewater management and sanitation infrastructure. For example, in May 2023, the United Nations' France-based subsidiary, the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, reported that around the world, 2 billion people or 26% of the population lack access to safe drinking water, and 3.6 billion people or 46% do not have properly managed sanitation. Annually, between two and three billion people face water shortages for at least one month, and it is projected that by 2050, the number of urban dwellers experiencing water scarcity will be between 1.7–2.4 billion people. Thus, factors such as population growth, increasing water scarcity, and urbanization are propelling the expansion of the plumbing fixtures and fittings market.

What Are Some Emerging Trends In The Plumbing Fixtures and Fittings Market?

Key enterprises in the market for plumbing fixtures and fittings are prioritizing the creation of soaking tubs, aimed at boosting user satisfaction, aesthetic enhancement, relaxation, and the introduction of unique designs and materials in line with the preferences and sustainability expectations of contemporary consumers. Essentially, soaking tubs are deeper versions of bathtubs invented for providing a complete body immersion spa-like experience which is therapeutic and soothing. Unlike regular bathtubs, soaking tubs generally have greater depth and width, thus offering users the luxury of a comfortable soak and an at-home spa-like experience. To illustrate, Cabuchon Inc, headquartered in the UK, debuted their Futari two-person soaking tub in June 2023. The Futari tub leverages sharply inclined sidewalls to upgrade the soaking experience but without enlarging its footprint, thereby making it a suitable choice for bathrooms with space constraints. It is equipped with inbuilt seating which enables bath users to assume an upright, semi-seated position, guaranteeing utmost comfort during utilization.
