The Kidz Closet, operated by Fostering Hope Florida, serves as a vital resource for foster families across the region. The program ensures that children entering foster care have immediate access to the clothing and essentials they need during challenging transitions. Through the generosity of donors like Verdung, the closet continues to serve hundreds of children each year.

"Every child deserves to feel cared for and supported, no matter their circumstances," said Edwin Scott Verdung. "I believe it's our responsibility as business leaders and neighbors to give back in ways that directly impact the lives of young people. Supporting the Kidz Closet is one small way I can help make sure children in foster care have what they need to feel safe and valued."

"Community partners like Edwin and his team play a vital role in sustaining programs like the Kidz Closet," said a Publicist and Spokesperson for Edwin. "With this support, we can continue providing comfort and stability for children in foster care during some of the most difficult times

Fostering Hope Florida has been serving foster families since 2004, offering support programs designed to reduce stress on foster parents while improving the quality of life for children. The Kidz Closet program accepts both financial contributions and in-kind donations, with items distributed free of charge to foster families.
