

RadSite Welcomes New Standards Committee Members

RadSite announces the newest members of the ADI and CBCT Standards Committee

ANNAPOLIS, MD, UNITED STATES, October 21, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- RadSite™, a leading accreditation organization promoting performance- and quality-based imaging practices, is pleased to welcome the newest members of the Advanced Diagnostic Imaging (ADI) and Cone Beam CT (CBCT) Standards Committees. Each new member brings unique and valuable expertise to help strengthen RadSite's six accreditation programs.

“RadSite is taking a fresh and dynamic approach to accreditation. They’re challenging a status quo that hasn’t changed in years. A new perspective is exactly what this industry needs to drive real and sustainable change,” notes Matthew Hayes, BSRS, ARRT (R)(MR)(CT), MRSE, MRSO, Creator and President of ScanLab & ImagingU. “I’m honored to serve on the Radsite ADI Standards Committee and to contribute in any way I can.”

RadSite is taking a fresh and dynamic approach to accreditation.”

Founded in 2005, RadSite promotes quality-based practices for imaging systems across the United States and its territories. Today, RadSite offers six accreditation programs in advanced diagnostic imaging. RadSite is recognized by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services as an official accreditation organization under the Medicare Improvements for Patients and Providers Act of 2008. It is also recognized by more than 350 payers and has accredited more than 2,000 imaging systems. RadSite's programs help assess, track, and report imaging trends to enhance imaging procedures and outcomes. The organization also offers educational programs, publishes issue briefs, and underwrites research on a complimentary basis to raise awareness of safety issues and promote best practices. RadSite is governed by an independent advisory board and committee system, open to a wide range of volunteers to ensure transparency and accountability.
