This partnership extends valuable benefits to ACHS staff, students, and alumni, particularly licensed graduates and Certified Nutrition Specialist® credential (CNS®) candidates or professionals who are exploring private practice, transitioning from traditional clinical roles, or starting solo telehealth businesses.

Berry Street offers operational support that our graduates could use in today's evolving health & wellness marketplace.”

Ilana Rose Frigaard

Through Berry Street, ACHS community members gain access to:

- Licensing and credentialing support
- Full back-office platform with AI-powered tools
- Insurance administration with guaranteed payment
- A professional community of experienced practitioners

Additionally, ACHS is offering exclusive tuition discounts to the Berry Street workforce to support their ongoing professional education and credential advancement.

“Berry Street offers operational support that our graduates could use in today's evolving health and wellness marketplace,” said Ilana Frigaard, COO of ACHS. “This collaboration aligns with our mission to help practitioners not only deliver evidence-based care but also thrive as business owners.”

About Berry Street

Berry Street is a business-in-a-box platform that helps licensed healthcare and wellness professionals start and scale private practices that accept health insurance. Their software and administrative services streamline everything from insurance contracting and eligibility checks to claims billing, customer support, and patient acquisition, empowering practitioners to focus on what matters most: client care.
