

Radix and Seeq Collaborate to Redefine a New Era of Industrial Intelligence

Driving Real Results for Global Manufacturers Through Data-Driven Innovation and Scalable Solutions

HOUSTON, TX, UNITED STATES, October 27, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Radix, a technology solutions services company delivering innovative industrial AI solutions to asset-intensive industries with operations globally, today announced a strategic partnership with Seeq, the global leader in industrial analytics, AI, and enterprise monitoring for industrial companies.

This global alliance is designed to empower asset-intensive industries, including oil and gas, chemicals and petrochemicals, power and utilities, and more, with the tools and insights needed to build smarter, more agile operations.

Together, they will help clients across North America, LATAM, EMEA, and Singapore unlock new levels of efficiency, reliability, and sustainability across their operations.

By combining advanced analytics, deep industry expertise, and innovative industrial AI solutions, manufacturers can transform data into actionable insights that drive measurable business value. Vikram Prakasam, VP of Alliances & Partnerships at Seeq, said, "Seeq is proud to expand our partnership with Radix. Together, we are enabling customers worldwide to accelerate digital transformation by combining Radix's deep engineering intelligence, integration, and consulting expertise with Seeq's industrial analytics and AI platform for real business impact that brings in stronger customer value."

The partnership will further leverage Seeq's global partner ecosystem to address the region's
