

ATWT Looks to Expand Board of Directors and Implement Strategic Changes

Company Unveils Plan for Diversification and Rapid Growth via Multiple Acquisitions

TULSA, OK, UNITED STATES, October 28, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- a leader in residential construction and vehicle technologies (the "Company"), today unveiled its plan to implement rapid strategic corporate changes, including the launch of a new business model, expanding its Board of Directors, and changing its name and trading symbol, as it seeks to uplist its stock to Nasdaq by year-end 2026.

The Company's Board of Directors, led by new CEO Josh Ploch, unanimously approved the agenda, including the Company's new business plan and corporate vision, focusing on building the organization through growth by acquisition, in order to increase assets and overall shareholder value. As part of this evolution, ATWT will diversify its portfolio beyond its core subsidiary, The Birch Company, a trusted name in residential construction. The Company has already identified several potentials acquisition targets, and is now engaged in negotiations for either purchase or joint venture with two profitable companies, intended to bolster the Company's core businesses.

The transition to a holding company framework will allow ATWT to explore various investments in complementary industries, which will in turn foster innovation and long-term value creation for shareholders. Ploch discussed the Board's new strategy further, portfolio of companies that harness cutting-edge technologies and creative market opportunities, positioning them for sustained success in their respective markets. Our entire team is pressing ahead with a renewed sense of urgency, and shareholders can expect further details of our plan and our target acquisitions to be released in the near future."

The Company has begun its search for highly skilled and dynamic business leaders in order to provide strategic direction and leadership as it grow its management team for 2026 success.

ATWT tentatively has plans to expand the Board by adding 2-3 highly qualified new members in the months ahead.

Additionally, the Board is now working to finalize a plan for a short-term offering to raise critical working capital, which will be utilized to strengthen operations, pay certain short-term liabilities, and get into accounting and legal compliance, so that ATWT will get to "Current Information" on the OTC Markets, in order to get its name changes and new stock symbol, in anticipation for an uplist to a national market by year-end. The Company plans to announce further details on its plan in the weeks ahead.

Shareholders and other investors can find the disclosure related to ATWT's plan for strategic changes and expansion of management on the OTC Markets website, as well as the Company's website,
