

Stairs are no longer a concern with StairWedge GrooveTread Edition Launches to Boost Pet Confidence on Stairs

The upgraded StairWedge offers groove-tread traction, joint-friendly design and modular flexibility for pets of all ages and sizes.

DRAPER, UT, UNITED STATES, October 28, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Navigating stairs can be a daily challenge for pets—from tiny toy breeds to elderly dogs and those recovering from surgery. Today, StairWedge introduces its GrooveTread Edition, an enhanced version of its acclaimed stair-ramp system. With patent-pending utility and design filings in progress, this model blends advanced surface engineering with practical home use.

Pet parents consistently said they wanted improved traction, better joint support and adaptability for any stair configuration. The GrooveTread Edition answers that with three hallmark features:

- Precision Groove + Tread Surface — the combination of directional grooves and tread texture offers reliable paw placement and resistance to slipping, especially on slick surfaces or during descent.
- Gentle Incline with Joint Relief — by converting stairs into a ramp with optimized slope and surface comfort, StairWedge helps reduce strain on hips, knees, backs and especially mitigates risks associated with IVDD and hip dysplasia.
- Indoor/Outdoor Compatible & Modular Extendible — Built for indoor staircases, decks and porches (dry conditions recommended), the unit is lightweight, expandable and blends easily with home settings.

The foundation material remains sustainable cork with a grip tread surface—a combination chosen for durability and pet-friendly feel. With each module rated to support over 1,500 lbs, the system is designed for multi-pet households, large dogs and long-term use.

Intellectual property is central to this launch. Both functional elements (groove design, tread pattern, ramp geometry) and aesthetic form (modular shape, surface texture) are covered under patent-pending applications, positioning StairWedge as a leader who protects its innovations.

When used properly, pet owners report improved mobility in their pets, less lifting, reduced owner fatigue and fewer scary missteps. Aesthetics matter too—StairWedge’s design aims to integrate into living spaces rather than dominate them.

We listened closely to every piece of feedback, and the result is our most responsive design yet. The groove and grip system delivers the stability dogs need, and the confidence pet parents want.”
