A Shared Vision and Partnership

"This recognition truly belongs to both Paul Logsdon and me," said Miles. "Paul has been my partner in every aspect of building RGX; from identifying the critical gap in the market to architecting our platform. Together, we've replaced fragmented, opaque systems with a transparent marketplace that delivers real value. This award celebrates our shared vision and the incredible team we've built around it."

Under the leadership of Miles and Co-Founder Logsdon, RGX has created the first centralized marketplace for ITAD services, connecting corporate clients to a vetted network of local recycling and resale vendors. The platform's real-time bidding system and integrated compliance tools have set new industry standards while delivering measurable environmental impact.

Leading with Purpose and Results

The co-founders have distinguished themselves through a mission-first approach that prioritizes scalability, simplicity, and accessibility across the ITAD ecosystem. Their collaborative leadership has fostered an agile, purpose-driven culture at RGX, enabling the company to consistently deliver value to stakeholders while advancing sustainability goals.

Miles will be honored alongside other C-Suite Award winners at a celebration dinner on Nov. 13 at Mile High Station in Denver.
