

AsadoGrill Brings Authentic Argentinian Grill Tradition to Europe with Custom-made Grills from Vienna

Austrian-made grills inspired by Argentinian Asado culture—engineered for chefs, designed for generations.

VIENNA, VIENNA, AUSTRIA, October 30, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- AsadoGrill's stainless steel grills are inspired by traditional Argentine "parrilla" barbecues, featuring adjustable-height grates and removable fire baskets for versatile open-fire cooking. Each grill is custom-built in Vienna, Austria, combining South American grilling culture with Austrian engineering precision. Crafted from high-grade stainless steel, these grills deliver both durability and elegant design for home patios or professional kitchens.

Vienna, Austria – October 29, 2025 –

AsadoGrill, a Vienna-based manufacturer of custom Argentinian-style barbecue grills, is bringing the authentic Asado experience from Argentina directly to European backyards with its new line of custom-made stainless-steel grills. The series combines South American passion with Austrian engineering expertise – designed for discerning enthusiasts who value exceptional design, premium quality, and rich grilling tradition.

"An Asado is more than just a grill – it's an experience," says Aaron Genswein, Managing Director of Stahlkraft GmbH (AsadoGrill). "Our customers design their grill entirely according to their vision: from the dimensions and type of grill grate to individual details. Each piece is a one-of-a-kind creation built to last for generations."

Why AsadoGrill Stands Out

All-stainless construction: Robust, elegant, and easy to maintain.

Fully customizable: Everything from the size and grate style to accessories and configuration is tailored to each customer's wishes.

Precision grilling: Height-adjustable cranks and modular grates allow for precise cooking control over fire and embers.

Pan-European delivery: Free shipping is available across the EU, as well as to the UK and Switzerland.

Austrian craftsmanship: Hand-built and custom-made in Vienna with sustainable production methods and uncompromising quality standards.

Since its founding in 2023, AsadoGrill has championed a return to genuine barbecue culture – uncompromising in material, craftsmanship, and style. Whether destined for a home garden or a professional restaurant kitchen, each AsadoGrill unit brings the fire of Argentina to Europe's grilling enthusiasts, delivering an authentic taste of South American grill tradition in a modern premium design.
