Selected to Recreate Hazmat U
Learning Website

Advanced Digital Automotive Group has announced its selection to recreate the Hazmat U learning website, an online training platform dedicated to hazardous materials certification and education. The redesign project will focus on improving accessibility, performance, and user experience to better serve professionals who rely on Hazmat U for compliance training and safety courses.

Hazmat U offers specialized online courses designed to help workers safely handle, transport, and manage hazardous materials while meeting federal regulations. Partnering with ADAG ensures the platform will integrate advanced design, functionality, and security—enhancing the overall learning experience for users nationwide.

“

We're honored to bring our digital expertise to Hazmat U and support their mission of delivering vital hazmat training through an accessible, modern platform.”

Paul Donahue, CEO

A Word from the Owner
