"Our clients need more than just legal advice -- they need strategic counsel that understands how legal decisions impact their business objectives," said Conor A. Meyers, co-founder of Clark Meyers PC. "With over three decades of combined executive leadership experience across multiple industries, we bring a unique perspective that goes beyond traditional legal counsel. We've run businesses, we understand what entrepreneurs and executives face daily, and we provide practical, results-oriented guidance."

The Litigation-Informed Business Counsel Advantage

What sets Clark Meyers PC apart in the competitive legal services market is the firm's unique dual expertise in both litigation and business strategy. Co-founder Lee Clark brings over 30 years of complex litigation experience, having served as lead trial counsel in dozens of cases across California and Idaho state and federal courts. His background includes serving as a Court Appointed Arbitrator and Judge Pro Tem, along with extensive experience as a mediator and arbitrator selected by parties in high-stakes disputes.

This litigation background informs every business decision. "We don't just draft contracts and form entities--we anticipate how disputes arise and structure agreements to prevent them," explained Lee Clark. "After three decades of handling construction defects, commercial litigation, environmental contamination, insurance coverage, and professional liability matters, I understand exactly where businesses become vulnerable. This perspective allows us to provide proactive legal strategies that protect our clients before problems emerge." Conor A. Meyers complements this litigation expertise with over 30 years of executive leadership experience, having served as CEO, COO, CFO, and General Counsel across multiple industries including construction, design consulting, forensic investigations, and biotechnology. His entrepreneurial success includes founding and operating several companies, most notably creating Axis Building Detection in 2019 and establishing ACE Building Envelope Design in 2011—one of only seven FGIA accredited companies in the Western United States.

Serving California and Idaho's Most Dynamic Business Markets Clark Meyers PC maintains a strategic presence in two of the West's fastest-growing business corridors. The firm's Concord, California office serves businesses throughout Contra Costa County, the broader East Bay region, and California's Central Valley. The Nampa, Idaho office, located in the heart of the Treasure Valley, serves the rapidly expanding business community across Ada and Canyon counties.

Licensed in both California and Idaho, the firm's attorneys bring deep understanding of regional market dynamics and industry-specific challenges. The practice has particular strength serving construction companies, land developers, manufacturing businesses, agriculture operations, and professional services firms. This industry specialization, combined with strong relationships with CPAs, financial advisors, and business consultants, allows Clark Meyers PC to provide integrated counsel that addresses both legal and business objectives. The firm's client base spans from Walnut Creek and Lafayette in the affluent East Bay business district, through the corporate centers of California's Central Valley, to the booming Treasure Valley region where agriculture, construction, and development sectors are experiencing unprecedented growth. This geographic diversity provides Clark Meyers PC with comprehensive insight into regional business challenges and opportunities. BigLaw Expertise with Boutique Firm Attention Mid-market businesses face a challenging dilemma in securing quality legal counsel: large law firms offer sophisticated expertise but at prohibitive cost with impersonal service models that route work to junior associates. Small general practice firms provide accessibility but often lack the specialized business law expertise required for complex transactions and strategic planning. Clark Meyers PC eliminates this false choice by delivering Fortune 500-level legal services through a boutique firm structure that ensures direct partner access, personalized attention, and cost-effective solutions.

Clients communicate directly with Lee Clark and Conor Meyers -- not support staff or junior attorneys—receiving same-day response for urgent matters and comprehensive strategic guidance for long-term planning. "We understand that business moves fast, and our clients need timely, decisive guidance to capitalize on opportunities and address challenges," noted Conor Meyers. "That's why we maintain a highly selective practice, taking on only clients where we can truly add value and function as integrated members of their strategic teams. We feel our clients' sense of urgency and deliver accordingly."

A Partnership Approach to Legal Services

At the core of Clark Meyers PC's service model is a fundamental belief that effective legal counsel must be integrated with business strategy. The firm's tagline -- Effective Outside Counsel--reflects this commitment to providing not just technically correct legal advice, but strategic guidance that serves clients' ultimate business objectives. This philosophy manifests through quarterly strategic reviews that align business and legal strategy, proactive communication that anticipates needs before they become urgent, and an ongoing process of continuous improvement: Define, Measure, Analyze, Improve, Control. Rather than positioning themselves as outside service providers, Clark Clark and Conor Meyers function as integral members of their clients' executive teams.

The firm's core values—Integrity, Excellence, Partnership, Strategic Thinking, and Responsiveness—guide every client interaction. Legal advice is always provided in the context of clients' best long-term interests, even when that requires difficult conversations. The firm delivers sophisticated legal solutions with the same rigor expected at the highest levels of business and law, while maintaining the accessibility and personal touch that only a boutique firm can provide.

Engaging Clark Meyers PC

Clark Meyers PC welcomes inquiries from established businesses and growth-stage entrepreneurs throughout Northern California and Idaho who are seeking strategic legal partnership. The firm's initial engagement process begins with an in-depth strategic consultation to understand business objectives, challenges, and legal landscape. From there, the firm develops customized service recommendations based on specific business needs and growth plans. The firm offers flexible engagement structures including monthly retainer-based fractional general counsel services, budget-based pricing for transactional work aligned with deal complexity, and competitive hourly rates for specialized litigation or complex advisory matters. This pricing flexibility ensures that sophisticated legal counsel remains accessible to mid-market businesses without the overhead and inefficiencies of large firm structures.
