

Mujo Learning Launches AI Textbook for Business Administration

Artificial Intelligence for Business Administration Prepares Graduates for the AI-Driven Office

NEW YORK, NY, UNITED STATES, November 6, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Artificial intelligence is redefining how administrative professionals plan, organize, and manage modern workplaces. To help colleges and universities close the skill gap, Mujo Learning Systems announced the release of Artificial Intelligence for Business Administration, the first textbook to integrate AI literacy directly into higher-education administration curricula.

The textbook blends core administrative principles with hands-on AI applications:

Administrative professionals today must understand how AI enhances communication, operations, and decision-making. This book bridges the gap between traditional administrative education and AI."

Alex Strauss, President of Mujo Learning Systems Inc.

- Operations & Efficiency: Automating workflow, scheduling, and data management
- People & Processes: Leveraging AI in HR and team coordination
- Data & Decisions: Using analytics and predictive tools to guide management choices
- Ethics & Responsibility: Addressing transparency and workplace impact

Each adoption includes a complete instructor toolkit — Customizable PowerPoints, lesson plans, test banks, lecture videos, and LMS-ready modules — to make integration seamless for educators.

According to a 2024 report from LinkedIn Learning, administrative and operations roles utilizing AI tools have grown 28 % year-over-year, and 9 in 10 employers now rank “AI literacy” as a top emerging skill. Mujo’s new curriculum directly addresses that demand.

Artificial Intelligence for Business Administration is available in print and digital editions for Fall 2025 courses.
