-- Dentulu, a leading Teledentistry platform and virtual dental health ecosystem, today announced a strategic partnership with Aquoral® to expand national access to its advanced xerostomia (dry mouth) therapy. Leveraging Dentulu's network of licensed dental professionals and its HIPAA-compliant fulfillment system, the Aquoral® oral spray can now be prescribed virtually and delivered directly to patients across the United States.

With Aquoral and our Dentulu ecosystem in rapid expansion, we're proving that the era of office-bound oral health solutions is ending."

Dry mouth, or xerostomia, affects millions of Americans and is commonly triggered by prescription medications, cancer therapy, autoimmune diseases, stress, and the use of CPAP machines for sleep apnea. If left untreated, it can lead to tooth decay, gum disease, difficulty speaking or swallowing, and diminished quality of life. Aquoral®, a Class II FDA-cleared medical device, provides long-lasting relief by forming a bio adhesive barrier on the oral mucosa offering a clinically superior alternative to water-based rinses and sugar-laden lozenges.

"This partnership exemplifies how Dentulu is transforming access to prescription dental products," said Dr. Arash Hakhamian, CEO of Dentulu. "Through our virtual care platform, patients suffering from dry mouth can now be evaluated by a licensed dentist online and receive Aquoral® shipped directly to their door. No more waiting rooms, no more delays. This is the future of oral healthcare- connected, convenient, and clinically advanced." Dentulu's growing marketplace coupled with its ability to facilitate the delivery of prescription products to a consumer initiated workflow allows increased access to effective and highly sought after prescriptions under the care of licensed dentists when necessary and from the comfort of home.

Dentulu's B2B ecosystem also enables licensed providers, DSOs, sleep specialists, and healthcare organizations to purchase Aquoral® wholesale for integration into treatment protocols—particularly in managing CPAP-induced dry mouth and cancer-related xerostomia. With a fast-growing catalog of medical-grade oral health solutions, Dentulu's platform streamlines both patient-facing and provider-facing access to innovation.

"Dentulu isn't just a Teledentistry provider, it's an integrated marketplace and distribution network purpose-built for the future of oral-systemic care," said Shiva Kumar, Co-founder and CTO of Dentulu. "We're proud to support Aquoral's national rollout and welcome other companies with prescription or FDA-cleared products to join us in bringing best-in-class technologies directly to patients."

The partnership reflects Dentulu's broader mission to unify oral health and systemic medicine through digital workflows, remote diagnostics, and evidence-based therapeutics. Through its nationwide network of licensed dentists, asynchronous consultations and HIPAA-compliant software ecosystem, Dentulu empowers FDA-cleared, prescription-grade, and clinically validated dental products to break free from the limitations of traditional in-office distribution.

"We're not just relocating preventive and integrated dental care from chairs to the home, we're revolutionizing how prescriptions, therapies and innovations reach patients and practices at scale," said Arash Hakhamian, CEO of Dentulu. "With Aquoral and our ecosystem in motion, we're proving that the era of office-bound oral health solutions is ending. Products that once required a personal dentist visit are now delivered directly to homes, clinics, and other remote locations by virtual prescription, through our network, with scalable models of distribution."
