Our goal is to give sellers packaging that fits their needs—strong, well-sized, and affordable. It’s about making fulfillment smoother while keeping every order looking its best.”

marketplace-first approach to mailer boxes that emphasizes right-sizing, dimensional-weight awareness, and platform policy alignment for social commerce and marketplace sellers. Built on U.S. manufacturing with rapid turnaround and low minimums, the updated assortment is designed to help brands and creators balance protection, presentation, and parcel cost across channels.

Purpose-built packaging for marketplace realities

Seller operations on platforms such as Etsy, TikTok Shop, and other DTC marketplaces increasingly hinge on packaging choices that influence both conversion and landed cost. UCanPack’s 2025 lineup focuses on practical variables—outside dimensions, flute strength, fold integrity, and consistent print—so parcels meet carrier tiers more predictably while products arrive as intended.

Right-sized options: A broad range of dielines and depths helps reduce excess void space and avoid unnecessary DIM charges across major carriers.

Rate-smart by design: Box geometries and material selections are engineered with common ground and air tiers in mind to support cost control without compromising delivery quality.

Made in the USA with fast turns: According to UCanPack’s site, most non-custom orders ship within three business days; custom manufacturing and printing typically add approximately three days after artwork approval.

Customization and instant pricing: UCanPack’s 3D Box Designer supports live previews, artwork uploads, and instant quotes with low minimums and no die or plate charges.

Brand-forward finishes: Options include kraft, white, black, and color mailer boxes, along with seasonal pre-printed selections for peak periods.
