subsidiaries — Consumer Product Partners, Surefil, and the U.S. operations of Nice-Pak Products — into a single, unified business effective January 1, 2026. The new entity will operate under the Nice-Pak Products name and will be headquartered in St. Louis, Missouri.

This strategic move follows the recent combination of Vivos Holdings and Nice-Pak Products and reflects a shared commitment to delivering high-quality, innovative products that support healthful living. By bringing together the strengths of these three organizations, the new Nice-Pak Products will offer a more streamlined, customer-centric experience for private brand and contract manufacturing partners across the health, hygiene, and personal care sectors.

“This integration marks an exciting step forward in our journey to build a best-in-class platform for providing private brand and contract manufacturing solutions to our North America customers,” said Richard Koulouris, Chairman and Chief Executive Officer of Emprise Group. “By aligning our capabilities and resources under the trusted Nice-Pak name, we’re creating a more agile, focused business that’s better positioned to serve our customers and drive innovation.”

The new Nice-Pak Products will continue to invest in product development, operational excellence, and employee development, while maintaining its focus on delivering safe, effective, and sustainable solutions that help consumers live healthier, cleaner lives.

Additional details about the integration and transition will be shared with partners and stakeholders in the coming weeks.
