Corporation, a women-owned leader in science-based personal care, proudly announces the growing success of its dermatologist-tested CalmScalp® Topical Serum, now available on Amazon. Designed to soothe irritated scalp and hairline, CalmScalp's formula was shown in a six-week clinical study to reduce or eliminate scales, redness, and flakes, especially behind the ears and along the hairline, where symptoms often persist. Formulated with just seven ingredients, CalmScalp is a steroid-free, non-shampoo, leave-on serum enriched with moisturizing avocado and penetrating grapeseed oil. It's non-greasy, non-staining, fast-drying, and dries clear on the skin, making it ideal for daily use—even under styling products. Simply apply and go.

□ Why CalmScalp Was Created

"As a company deeply committed to solving real consumer problems, we saw a clear unmet need in the marketplace," said Carol Buck, CEO of Xenna Corporation. "People were asking questions like: What's the best serum for irritated scalp and hairline? Is there a steroid-free treatment for flakes and redness? Can I use something gentle for the appearance of psoriasis behind the ears? These weren't just product inquiries—they were calls for help. That's why we developed CalmScalp Topical Serum: a clinically proven, non-steroidal solution that dries clear, doesn't stain,

We wanted to give people a safe, effective option they could trust, especially those who've struggled to find scalp relief without harsh chemicals."

□ Clinically Proven Results

In a six-week clinical study, CalmScalp significantly improved the appearance of irritated scalp and hairline, including areas affected showing symptoms of mild to moderate psoriasis. Participants reported reduced flaking, exfoliated scales, and visibly calmer skin. Before-and-after images showed dramatic improvement in scalp clarity and comfort.

□ Free of Harsh Ingredients

CalmScalp is free of steroids, coal tar, salicylic acid, parabens, preservatives, and sulfates. It offers a safe, drug-free alternative for those seeking relief from chronic scalp irritation without the risks associated with corticosteroids or medicated shampoos.
