-- As a world-leading online competition platform, PitPat is committed to building a professional yet engaging community for sports enthusiasts. By integrating smart devices and digital technology, PitPat enables users to participate in global competitions anytime, anywhere, while combining athletic performance with social interaction. From casual runners and fitness beginners to professional athletes, everyone can find the right competitive stage on PitPat, experiencing the thrill and achievement of sport.

PitPat recently announced the start of its November Open Trial Week 2 online racing event. This 20-kilometer running challenge is designed to motivate participants to push their limits and achieve personal milestones. With a total prize pool of $1,600, the top 50 finishers will earn generous rewards, while the top 40 will also receive tickets to the Elite Showdown, offering access to an elevated competitive experience. Participants are reminded not to pause for more than 10 minutes during the event and to complete the race within the designated time to ensure fair and valid results. This structured format encourages all competitors to perform at their best and fully immerse themselves in the authentic competitive atmosphere.

Kevin Zhang, Founder of PitPat, commented:

"Through PitPat, we want sports to be more than just a way to stay fit; it's an opportunity for everyone to showcase their skills and passion on a global stage. Online competitions remove the barriers of location, allowing participants to compete alongside athletes from around the world.
