The market size of military helicopters is predicted to experience robust growth in the upcoming years, escalating to $59.39 billion in 2029 with a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of 6.2%. Factors contributing to this anticipated growth during the forecast period include escalating territorial and political hostilities, swift progress in technology, and the enhancement of military helicopters. Some notable trends expected to mark the forecast period incorporate the incorporation of technological improvements and advancements like dynamic modelling, and fly-by-wire controls in lightweight helicopter products. Also, the integration of IoT systems, the application of artificial intelligence technology, the contemplation of 3D printing technology for cost-effective production of lightweight parts, the consideration of single engine operative mode to reduce noise pollution in helicopters, and the execution of autonomous systems to augment helicopter maintenance are projected trends.
