Nicholls Auction Marketing Group announces the online-only auction of "The Virginia Trust Company Building" (circa 1919)—an iconic and architecturally stunning property located in downtown Richmond.”

John Nicholls

“The Virginia Trust Company Building is a masterpiece of early 20th-century architecture and a true centerpiece of Richmond’s historic downtown,” said Nicholls. “Featuring marble floors, soaring 50-foot vaulted ceilings, ornate coffered domes, and grand arched windows, this property embodies the craftsmanship and elegance of a bygone era—while standing at the center of Richmond’s ongoing revitalization.”

Located at 819 East Main Street, Richmond, VA 23219, the 26,638± square foot building offers exceptional visibility and access, surrounded by restaurants, cafes, retail, and entertainment in nearby Shockoe Bottom. It is also minutes from I-95, I-64, and the Downtown Expressway.

"This remarkable property sits within the momentum of Richmond's urban renewal," noted Kelly Strauss, auction coordinator for Nicholls Auction Marketing Group. "With several nearby office-to-apartment conversions, the building presents tremendous potential for continued redevelopment and adaptive reuse."

Property Highlights:

- Iconic 26,638± sq. ft. historic building located one block from the Virginia State Capitol
- Three above-ground levels and two below-ground levels
