A Bright Future for Local Window Coverings

Bumble Bee Blinds of Boulder opened its doors in 2023 as part of the Bumble Bee Blinds national brand, backed by HorsePower Brands — a parent company dedicated to empowering locally owned home service businesses. Owners Amber and Eric Hoffman quickly established the Boulder location as a trusted provider of custom window treatments, including blinds, shades, shutters, drapery, and motorized solutions.

In just two years, the company has grown steadily through strong community partnerships, word-of-mouth referrals, and a commitment to personalized service. The new office location will serve as a design consultation hub, client meeting space, and operational base for the company's expanding team.

"Many of our clients are in Boulder, Louisville, Lafayette, and Longmont — but Boulder has always been the heart of our business," said Eric Hoffman, co-owner. "This space allows us to better serve local homeowners, builders, and interior designers while continuing to bring thoughtful, design-driven solutions to every project."

Supporting Small Business and Local Growth

The decision to open inside Strive Workspaces was a deliberate one. Strive's mission — to provide flexible, affordable office solutions for small and growing businesses — aligns closely with Bumble Bee Blinds of Boulder's own values of supporting local enterprise. Both businesses are active members of the Boulder Chamber of Commerce.

As a Boulder Chamber Member, Bumble Bee Blinds of Boulder has been actively involved in the local business community, including participation in events hosted by the Chamber and the Home Builders Association of Denver’s Sales & Marketing Council. This new downtown presence further strengthens the company’s ties to the city’s thriving business network.
