About Kreativespace

Kreativespace, an AI powered writing tools suite, was founded by Vinet Kakadea, an alumnus of Marymount University and New York University. The idea was born from his personal struggle as a student juggling with multiple writing and learning platforms. He realised that alternating between different learning management systems and AI writing tools was an exhausting task for learners. He wanted to create one space that would offer complete writing solutions for everyone without any limits or hidden costs.
