“This Veterans Day, New York honors all who served – and the families who stood with them,” said DVS Commissioner Viviana M. DeCohen. “We are deeply grateful to Albany Law School and Tully Rinckey PLLC for helping us bring our community together in celebration, remembrance, and respect.”

“As a law firm founded by Veterans, we are deeply honored to stand alongside the New York State Department of Veterans' Services and Albany Law School in recognizing all who served and continue to serve our communities,” said Greg T. Rinckey, Founding Partner, Tully Rinckey PLLC.

"Veterans bring integrity, resilience, and a profound sense of duty to every field they enter. This tribute not only celebrates their service in uniform, but also their extraordinary ongoing contributions to our state and nation. We are proud to help ensure that every Veteran and Military Family feels the gratitude they have rightfully earned. Whether it is through this special event, our flagship initiative VETCON, Turkeys for Veterans distribution program with our partner Market 32, or the Tully Rinckey Foundation and Military Scholarship Program, our firm's core values are deeply rooted in community, advocacy, and service through action to honor all who served."

DVS Executive Deputy Commissioner Joel Evans added, "Veterans Day is not only about honoring service in uniform – it is about recognizing Veterans as leaders, public servants, innovators, and anchors in every community across our State. We are proud to celebrate their legacy and their future."
