Our goal is to help families experience both West Point traditions and the Hudson Valley's creative and natural beauty—all while enjoying the comfort and calm of our historic inn.”

Owner

announced a curated “Culture & Outdoors” focus to help visiting families pair the United States Military Academy at West Point with the Hudson Valley's most-loved landmarks and trails—offering a distinctive alternative to standard hotels close to West Point. Set on landscaped grounds in historic Cornwall, the inn gives guests convenient access to arts, nature, and river towns while providing a quiet retreat before and after academy events.

Availability for peak academy dates is limited. For details or to plan a Culture & Outdoors stay, visit the inn's West Point

A culture-and-nature-based camp minutes from West Point

Located in Cornwall, New York, Cromwell Manor Inn places visitors within an easy, short drive of West Point and the region's signature cultural institutions and state parks. Families can explore art, history, and hiking by day—then return to a relaxed, character-rich property for the evening. The approach addresses growing demand from cadet families and alumni who want proximity to USMA alongside the Hudson Valley's broader experiences.

What families can expect

- Access to marquee culture: Guests are just minutes from Storm King Art Center, one of the world's leading outdoor sculpture parks, and within easy reach of galleries, museums, and riverfront history throughout the valley.
- Outdoors without the logistics: Bear Mountain State Park and its nearby trail systems offer family-friendly hikes, overlooks, and picnicking, with seasonal kayaking and river views available along the Hudson.

- Quiet, historic setting: The property's heritage buildings blend period architecture with modern comforts, creating a calm base between ceremonies, games at Michie Stadium, and campus tours.

- Local know-how: The inn team shares tailored recommendations for dining, coffee, and kid-ready stops in Cornwall, Highland Falls, and surrounding river towns.

Culture & Outdoors highlights near the inn

- Storm King Art Center — expansive outdoor sculpture across rolling meadows and forested paths.

- Bear Mountain State Park — hikes, overlooks, and family-friendly amenities a short drive away.

- Hudson River access — seasonal paddling and waterfront walks with mountain vistas.

- Historic West Point — tours and museums that illuminate American military history.

- Local makers & farms — farm markets, bakeries, and artisans throughout Cornwall and neighboring towns.

Why this matters now

The Hudson Valley continues to attract year-round travel interest, and academy calendars concentrate demand on select weekends. Cromwell Manor Inn's culture-and-outdoors emphasis aligns with how families increasingly stitch campus time into a broader regional experience—balancing ceremony schedules with scenic drives, trail walks, and art immersion.
