

Global Immigration Partners PLLC Warns of Rising E-2 Visa Denial Rates and Offers Guidance for Investors

Global Immigration Partners PLLC, a leading U.S. immigration law firm, is drawing attention to a growing trend in E-2 Treaty Investor Visa denials

WASHINGTON DC, DC, UNITED STATES, November 11, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- As E-2 visa applications continue to increase among international entrepreneurs, Global Immigration Partners PLLC, a leading U.S. immigration law firm based in Washington, D.C., is drawing attention to a growing trend in E-2 Treaty Investor Visa denials and advising investors on how to avoid common mistakes that jeopardize approval.

The E-2 visa is one of the most sought-after immigration pathways for foreign investors seeking to live and work in the United States through active business ownership. However, recent data and case reviews show that many denials result from preventable errors, including weak documentation, inadequate business plans, and unclear investment structures.

E-2 Visa Denials Often Stem from Technical Oversights

Every E-2 case tells a unique story, but the ingredients for success are consistent — clarity, credibility, and compliance”

Alexander Jovy

According to Global Immigration Partners, most rejections fall into a few recurring categories:

Incomplete or Unverified Source of Funds

Consular officers routinely deny E-2 visas when applicants fail to trace the full path of their investment funds. Clear documentation proving a lawful and traceable source is required.

TOP 5 REASONS E-2 VISAS GET DENIED

- 1 INSUFFICIENT INVESTMENT
The amount must be substantial enough to show real commitment.
- 2 WEAK BUSINESS PLAN
Vague projections or missing job creation plans can sink your case.
- 3 MARGINAL ENTERPRISE
Your business must create real U.S. jobs, not just support you
- 4 UNVERIFIED FUNDS
Always document where your investment money comes from
- 5 PASSIVE INVESTMENT
You must actively manage and direct the business

Underfunded or Non-Substantial Investments

The investment amount must be “substantial” relative to the type of business. Applications that appear speculative or undercapitalized are at high risk of denial.

Business Plans Lacking Credibility

A professionally written E-2 business plan is critical. Business plans that lack credible market analysis, financial forecasting, or hiring projections often lead to consular rejections.

Marginal or Passive Business Models

The E-2 program requires the investor to play an active managerial role and demonstrate potential for U.S. job creation. Passive or purely income-generating enterprises typically fail to meet eligibility standards.

Weak Presentation at Consular Interviews

Even qualified applicants can be denied if they are unprepared for consular questioning. Consular officers assess both the applicant’s knowledge of the business and the credibility of the overall case.

Expert Commentary from Global Immigration Partners

“E-2 visa success depends on preparation and precision,” said Alexander Jovy, co-managing partner at Global Immigration Partners PLLC. “Many applicants underestimate how closely consular officers scrutinize the source of funds, business viability, and managerial involvement. Our goal is to ensure every client meets — and exceeds — those evidentiary standards.”

The firm emphasizes the importance of early legal guidance and comprehensive case preparation, including business plan vetting, investment documentation, and mock consular interviews.
