

Army veteran Katie Verderber joins Silverman Law Office as litigation attorney

Army veteran Katie Verderber joins Silverman Law Office as a litigation attorney handling business, contract, real estate and probate disputes across Montana.

HELENA, MT, UNITED STATES, November 12, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Katie Verderber, a Montana native and military veteran, has joined Silverman Law Office as a litigation attorney focusing on business and contract disputes, real estate matters and probate.

Raised in Valier, Verderber earned her undergraduate degree from the University of Montana Western before receiving her Juris Doctor from Syracuse University College of Law.

Her desire to serve others led her to commission as a Judge Advocate General (JAG) officer in the United States Army, where she provided legal counsel to commanders on issues ranging from military justice and administrative law to national security and cybersecurity. She supported both domestic and international operations and deployed to Afghanistan in 2019.

After medically retiring from the Army, Verderber returned home to Montana and joined the Montana Department of Justice as a civil litigator. There, she represented the state in high-stakes cases involving wrongful convictions, inmate litigation and constitutional challenges.

Katie's leadership experience and mission-focused approach make her a powerful advocate for our clients.”
