traced back to factors such as customer expectations and quality of service, improvement in the supply chain, competitive dynamics in the market, service diversification, innovations in the last delivery mile, and changes in consumer behavior.

In the coming years, the express delivery market is projected to witness robust growth, reaching a value of $494.5 billion in 2029 with a Compound Annual Growth Rate (CAGR) of 9.1%. This expansion during the forecast period can be credited to numerous factors such as the ongoing growth of e-commerce, innovations in last-mile delivery options, the surge in demand for same-day and instant delivery, and the emphasis on eco-friendly practices. Major emerging trends during this period include an intensely competitive market scenario, evolving consumer tastes, globalization, cross-border commerce, ecological awareness, and increasing urbanization and population density.

What Are Key Factors Driving The Demand In The Global Express Delivery Market?

The remarkable expansion of the e-commerce sector is a major factor enhancing the development of the express delivery market. E-commerce involves the internet-based buying and selling of products and services. The application of express delivery within e-commerce enables an improvement in both the quality and speed of deliveries. For example, the India Brand Equity Foundation has predicted that by 2024, India's e-commerce sector will reach a value of USD 111 billion and will escalate to USD 200 billion by 2026. Similarly, the U.S. Department of Commerce reports that e-commerce sales in the U.S. surged to $265.9 billion in the third quarter of 2022, an upsurge of 9.1% from the third quarter of 2021. Thus, the extraordinary rise of the e-commerce sector is anticipated to drive the express delivery market's growth in the future.
