Our goal is to give families a learning option that fits naturally into daily routines, offering children a space to explore language through play in a safe environment.”

CEO

Learn Spanish app for children aged 2–8, highlighted a growing shift in family technology use: screen time that teaches. Available on Android and iOS, the program is designed to transform device time into a structured, age-appropriate learning experience within a safe, ad-free environment. The curriculum blends interactive games, stories, and songs that help young learners build listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills while staying engaged.

Turning screen time into learning time for ages 2–8

The Learn Spanish by Studycat experience follows a play-based methodology that helps children progress in short, repeatable sessions. Immediate feedback encourages learners to try, adjust, and try again, supporting confidence and retention. Families can create up to four learner profiles, track progress, and celebrate achievements without ads or third-party distractions.

Play-based activities: Interactive lessons, stories, and songs designed specifically for kids.

Skill coverage: Listening, speaking, reading, and writing practice for early learners.

Progress visibility: Tracking and rewards to motivate ongoing use.

Family-friendly setup: Learner profiles for up to four family members.

Safety by design: An ad-free, kid-safe learning space.

What families say and how they use it

Parents routinely describe the app as “fun first, learning always,” noting early vocabulary gains and sustained interest among young children. Studycat reports that its language learning experiences are trusted by over 16 million families worldwide and have earned more than 50,000 five-star reviews, reflecting long-term satisfaction across diverse age groups within the early learner range.
