

Yinson and Acumen Media launch documentary showcasing Yinson's role in advancing energy security and sustainability

LONDON, UNITED KINGDOM, November 20, 2025 /EINPresswire.com/ -- Acumen Media, has released a new short documentary that explores how Yinson Holdings Bhd is helping meet global energy needs while advancing energy security, energy equity, and environmental sustainability.

The film introduces viewers to Yinson Production's lease-and-operate model for Floating Production, Storage and Offloading (FPSO) vessels— a strategy that enables oil-producing countries and clients to develop offshore oil and gas resources without major upfront infrastructure investments.

Through clear visuals and expert narration, the documentary explains how Yinson's FPSOs are designed with emissions-reducing technologies, digital controls, and modern innovations.

Viewers also gain insight into Yinson's efforts to uplift local communities in emerging markets, including training programmes, inclusive employment practices, and long-term partnerships in Africa, Latin America and Asia.

The documentary arrives at a critical time: over 700 million people globally still live without access to electricity. It makes the case that FPSOs, when built and operated responsibly, can serve as a crucial bridge between today's energy needs and tomorrow's environmental goals.

Key themes covered in the film include:

- The importance of energy security, energy equity, and environmental sustainability
- Yinson's end-to-end, lease-and-operate FPSO delivery model
- Responsible innovation in offshore operations
- Community and local development as part of Yinson's strategy
