holiday shopping season, independent pet design studio Lil' Archie's unveils its newest “Walk” collection. The stylish lineup of dog collars and leashes is crafted in the U.S. from recycled plastic bottles and digitally printed to reduce harmful chemicals, water use, and waste – delivering a safer product for dogs and a stylish accessory for pet owners.

Sustainability meets sophistication in this thoughtfully designed collection of dog leashes and matching collars that blends high-fashion aesthetics with earth-friendly values. From the San Francisco collar's urban polish to the Key West leash's tropical flair, each piece is made to last and made to love. The featured collections include Tropical Garden (Eden + Key West), Ruff Ryder (Annadel + Hike Day), and City Chic (San Francisco + Manhattan).

“When we design eco-friendly dog accessories at Lil' Archie's, we think deeply about every detail,” says Melanie Lipsie, Creative and Brand Director. “For our new Walk line, that means reimagining not just what our products are made of, but how they're made. That's why we're using digital textile printing instead of traditional dyeing techniques, which helps to reduce water use, energy, and chemical waste dramatically.”

The lineup of durable, chic accessories is perfect for conscious gift-givers and pet owners who want to step out in sustainable style, from the hills to the beach to the city streets. With the holidays right around the corner, Lil' Archie's “Walk” collection is the ultimate gift for the eco-minded pet lover who has it all. Each piece combines timeless design with environmental integrity, making it a gift that looks as good as it does good.

Lil' Archie's "Walk" collection stands out for its thoughtful, eco-conscious approach from start to finish, including:

- Recycled Materials: Every leash and collar combination is made from recycled plastic water bottles, giving post-consumer waste a new purpose.
- Water-Saving Design: The brand's digital textile printing reduces water consumption by up to 90% compared to conventional dyeing.
- Non-Toxic Inks: The prints also use water-based inks, ensuring every accessory is safe for pets and gentle on the planet.
- Made in the USA: Local production reduces consumers' carbon footprint and supports American makers.

Brand namesake, Archie, wears the City Chic collar and leash set made from recycled plastic bottles.

"Thoughtful sourcing is the cornerstone of sustainable design," adds Lipsie. "By using recycled materials and eco-friendly processes, we're proving that sustainability can be beautiful for pets, people, and the planet."

The lightweight and extremely durable dog collars and leashes are constructed from non-toxic recycled plastic bottles, with 100% recycled poly webbing inside and an outer canvas cover. The brand is owned by local entrepreneur Rex Roberts and named in memory of his French Bulldog, Archie.
